Tip: Sometimes it is necessary while searching for a job to be proactive. This means taking action to make something happen. You can do this by stopping by the potential place of employment and introducing yourself, dropping off a resume and explaining your interest in the position. First impressions are very important, therefore, do not be afraid to take initiative while on your job search, but try your best to not be too intrusive or pushy.

*You may not work off-campus without the appropriate work authorization from the UFIC. You may work on-campus up to 20 hours per week (spring/fall) and more than 20 hours during the summer and other official breaks.
